Foreword

Revolutionary, Journalist. Interpreter of the holy scriptures, literature, scholar of Islamics, and a senior leader of the Indian National Congress, Mohiuddin Ahmed Abul Kalam Azad, known to the world as Maulana Azad was one of the outstanding figures of India's Freedom Movement. He was twice elected President of the Congress Party. His mature views and sagacious opinion were given the highest consideration by Mahatma Gandhi. He was the chief negotiator with the British during the crucial period between 1942 to 1946. After Independence he was India's first Education Minister and left a lasting imprint on the educational policies of the new nation.

His deep understanding of religions endowed him with that rare catholicism in outlook where religion becomes a vehicle for upholding and carrying forward the ideals of nationalism in a multi-ethnic society.

The Azad Collection, i.e. the collection of books, which was the only asset which Maulana Azad owned and which he donated to the I C C R, is remarkable for its range and variety.

It has been drawing scholars from far and near for consultation. The Council, by publishing a catalogue of the Azad collection will enhance its use many times and facilitate research on Maulana Azad's life and work. I congratulate Mr. Gulzar Naqvi, the Librarian, the library staff and all those scholars who have contributed to this useful work.

Introduction

Among the various contributions, that Maulana Abul Kalam Azad made as the first education Minister of free India, the establishment of the ICCR has verily, been considered as the most imaginative work. It has also played a significant role in cementing our relations with the Afro Asian world. Through the Council India has been able to present to the world the rich heritage of art and culture that has flourished here since time immemorial.

In order to further the activities of the Council, Azad also proposed the establishment of a Library at the Council and gave away his personal collection of about 9,000 books to form the nucleus for the Library. Maulana Azad, in the words of Pt. Nehru "a strange mixture of medieval scholasticism, 18th century rationalism and the modern outlook", was a great lover of books since his childhood. This trend in his personality had come from his father Maulvi Khairuddin, who is recorded to have spent a period of a year or two in Constantinople and Cairo simply for the sake of the books and book shops he found in these places. A voracious reader since his childhood, Maulana Azad spent a lot of money on books. He kept them under his mattress and read them by candle light often till 1 or 2 o' clock in the morning. Though trained in the traditional system of education, Azad's thirst for understanding the modern world made him collect all the modern books that he could, in Urdu, Persian and Arabic translation. He was in the regular habit of ordering recent publications from Cairo and Beirut and also took the financial help of his father's rich disciples for this purpose. Like Maulvi Khudabaksh of the Khudabaksh Library fame, Maulana Azad also purchased personal collections for his own Library. To mention a few, the personal collections of H. A. Rahim and Maulvi Kabiruddin, a collection of Dr. Sprenger of Awadh fame, in Calcutta, and the collection of Abdullah Jatkari in Bombay were purchased by him. His scholarly interest crossed the boundaries of oriental languages like Arabic, Persian and Urdu, to learn English, which he did with great effort through the English Bible and English newspapers. His personal collection transferred to the Council contains many an English book also. In his later life, eminent scholars of India and the Arabic and Persian world, regularly presented him with their recent publications.

Thus, the personal collection of Maulana Azad despite the ravages of time and many a catastrophe and upheaval through which it passed along with its proud owner, is an unique assemblage of literary and historical value

It is one of the few personal libraries along with that of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru whose owners left their indelible mark both on the pages of the history of the country and on the world of scholarship. The collection is not a repertoire of rarities, as we find at the Salarjung Museum or Khudabaksh Oriental Public Library, which were collected for their antique value only. Rather it is a Library built up with a conscious effort to whet, initially, the intellectual curiosity of a searching mind, and later, to support the scholarly pursuit of a genius par excellence. We find in the collection basic sources of medieval history such as Maasir-ul-Umera, Muntakhaba-ul-Twarikh, Tuzuk-e-Jahangiri, ranged along with classics of Persian literature by Firdosi, Jami, Sadi, Badrkhach and Urfi. The collection is replete with important exegeses of the Quraan such as Baidwi, Jalalain, Tafsir-e-Kabir and Tafsir-ibn-e-Jarir.

Along with published source material, there are about 200 manuscripts, some of which apart from their intrinsic value, also carry the hallmark of the antique. For instance a single volume of Tafsir Niyamat Khan-e-Ali or Tafsir-e-Nemat U zma is the only existing copy of the book which Maulana purchased for Rs. 15,000/- . A translation of the meaning of Quraan prepared for Noor Jahan was acquired by Maulana Azad for Rs. 5,000/- . A manuscript copy of Majalis-ul-Momin of Allama Shustri is also available in the rare collection of the Library.

The collection has most of the published works of Maulana Azad, books, magazines and newspapers.

In the Library are also available 3 manuscripts of Maulana Azad which remained unpublished during his lifetime. A press copy of the national movement, a book about India's freedom struggle, though not in his own handwriting, but in all probably written by him, is available here Al-Biruni aur Geographi-e-Alam, a book written by Maulana was sent for publication to Lahore. It could not be sent back to the publisher after correction but its press copy with the corrections in his own handwriting is a prized possession of this Library. A few years back our ex-colleague Syed Masihul Hassan carried out research on the book and edited it for publication under the auspices of the Dr. Zakir Hussain Institute of Islamic Studies, Jamia Millia Islamia. Similarly the copy of Jama-al-Shwahid, earlier published by Dar-ul-Mussanifin, Azamgarh, which bears extensive revision in the Maulana's handwriting is available in this Library. This book was also prepared for publication by Sayed Masihul Hassan and has been published by Khudabaksh Oriental Library Patna. Shri Masihul Hassan during his tenure at the ICCR Library examined each and every book in the collection and separated 75 books in Urdu, Arabic, Persian and English that bore comments of Maulana Azad on their margins. These were the spontaneous opinions of Maulana Azad and were only for his private use. Shri Masihul Hassan collected all such comments and diligently added to them their contexts. In this way, though separated from the actual publications, these comments became meaningful and provided a rare insight into Maulana Azad's assessment of the authors of these books. It was published by Urdu Academy, Delhi in 1988 through the good office of its energetic Secretary, Syed Shariful Hasan Naqvi.

Scores of scholars have taken advantage of this collection so far. The scope of research of some of the scholars has been Azad himself. Notable among them are Shri Malik Ram, Shri Abid Reza Bedar, Shri Khaliq Anjum, Mr. I. H. Douglas, Mr. C. W. Troll and Dr. Syeda Sayadain Hameed. In 1988 the Council decided to publish an encyclopaedic reference work on Maulana Abul Kalam Azad. Under the Chairmanship of Shri H. Y. Sharada Prashed, Vice-President of the Council, Dr. Syeda Hameed completed "India's Maulana" in 4 volumes. At the insistence of Shri Shankar Dayal Sharma, the then Vice-President of India/President, ICCR, Dr. Syeda Hameed translated into English an article of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad on Sarmad Saheed, which later on became the basis for organising an international seminar by the Council on Sufism. The Council published the proceedings of this seminar edited by Dr. Syeda Hameed in 1993.

In view of its academic value and as a source material for understanding the life and works by Maulana Azad, the Council has prepared an annotated catalogue of Urdu, Arabic and Persian books from his personal collection. In India, while published catalogues of manuscript libraries abound in number, there are very few catalogues of personal Libraries. The Subhanullah Collection at Aligarh Muslim University, the Fayzee Collection at Bombay University and the Buhai Collection and Sapru papers at the National Library, Calcutta are a few examples. The catalogue of the Azad collection will unfold before the world at large, a source that helped shape the mindframe of Maulana Azad. The Council by publishing it is making an effort to pay its tribute to the memory of a great scholar and educationist, who was its first President.

I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all those who have worked together in preparation of this monumental work. I am particularly indebted to Shri J A Wajid and Shri S Masihul Hassan for working ceaselessly on the project. My special thanks are due to Shri Shahabuddin Ansari and Shri S Masihul Hassan who have extended their wholehearted cooperation and support in preparing the index for these volumes. In addition to these stalwarts in the field of information sciences the project was also assisted by other friends. In this connection I wish to express my thanks to Shri Azim Ahmad Khan, Shri Hasin Asgar, Ms Bharati Dubey, Ms Bhupinder Kaur and Harjinder Singh for the assistance they rendered to the project.

The present work would not have seen the light of the day had I not got the close assistance and cooperation from my colleagues Ms Afshan Anjum and Shri Athar Hussain for providing access to the sources and Mr Sanjay Kumar for the secretarial support.

It is my most pleasant duty to thank Shri Vasant Sathe, former President of the Council for not only agreeing to the proposal but also for providing necessary help and support to the project. Shri S S Mukherjee, former Director General of the Council for taking proper action in pushing through the proposal and Shri Amit Das Gupta for providing moral and administrative support to the idea. Thanks are also due to the present Director General, Smt Meera Shankar and Shri U C Baro, Dy Director General (A), ICCR for giving full support to the project to bring it to its final shape.

Explanatory Note

The scheme followed for the transliteration of Urdu, Persian and Arabic names and words is given in the page following this note

The scheme has been adopted from J T Platts Dictionary of Urdu Classical Hindi and English (Oxford, OUP, 1960 pp vi, vii)

Generally the name has been rendered under the first name, when that first name is not a title, or some similar epithet. However, if an author is famous or cited by some other part of his name, he has been rendered under that part of the name. His full name has been given for reference. Other names, titles, pseudonyms by which an author has been cited in some other works, or he himself has used in his other works, have also been given even if these have not been mentioned in the work catalogued.

The names of editors, compilers and translators etc. have also been given.

Full title including the sub-title, alternative title or titles, and all other popular titles (even if not mentioned in the book catalogued) by which a work is referred have been given.

In the case of a translated work, while in the main body of the catalogue entry the translated title has been adopted, the title of the original work is given in the annotation.

If the work catalogued is a translation of a translation then in the annotation attempt has been made to give both the titles i.e. the title of the work from which the present translation has been made, and also the title of the original work.

The same is true for adaptations and free translation.

The books bound together, given on the margins, in parallel columns or in some other manner forming part of the book catalogued, have been described in full under the host book, i.e. the book whose part they form.

Works related to the book catalogued in the form of a commentary upon, sequel of, rejoinder to, or in some other manner, have been given in annotation.

Different editions, unless having significant material difference, have been brought together, with the variations in title, imprint or collation indicated

In annotations, besides the subject and scope of the work, the credentials of the author, and other important features have been given

Any particular relationship of the work with the owner of the collection, viz Maulana Azad, wherever applicable, has also been indicated

The main entries in the volume are under the name of the author, entries under edition, compiler or title are given if the book has no personal or corporate author To facilitate multiple access to the entries, Name of Person and Title indices have been added to all the three volumes of Urdu, Persian and Arabic books

The Name of Person index arranges in one alphabetical sequence, the name of the author as well as alternative names by which the author is known Names of collaborators such as joint author, editor, translator, adaptor and commentator of the main book as well as all other books are mentioned under the main title

The Title of book index is similarly a single sequence alphabetically arranged index of main titles, alternative title of the main title and all the titles recorded in the text under Bound with, in the margin, translated from, translated as, and also contains Similarly, all the titles appearing under the form heading Rasail or tract have also been listed individually A common practice in Arabic and Persian language is to begin the title of a book with a prefix Kıtab Rısala, or Majmua Such titles are listed along with the relevant prefix

Where a title has appeared at two different places with varying degree of completeness, entry in the index is given to the complete title with reference to the other titles

In course of preparing the index, certain duplication of entries or oversight in spelling of translation were detected An effort has been made to rectify them However, in this process certain entries were to be deleted from the catalogue The serial numbers of the remaining entries, however, have been left unchanged

The preparation of the catalogue was a gigantic work and every effort has been made for accuracy in choice and rendering of the headings and title There might still be scope for improvement We look forward to receive healthy comments to rectify mistakes, if any, in the next edition
